Homeowner Chooses County Materials' Landscape Products for Versatility, Durability in Backyard Patio Design

Solutions: Concrete landscape products in various colors and sizes provide an attractive outdoor living space and inventive storm water management solution

While shopping for landscape materials to build an outdoor living space in their backyard, a Wisconsin homeowner was impressed by the variety and versatility of County Materials' concrete landscape products.

The crisp edges and linear feel of Influence Pavers caught the homeowner's eye and became the focal point of the design.

Using County Materials' specification guide, the homeowner designed the project by hand and relied on professionals for installation. For the 800 SF patio, the homeowner chose Influence Pavers in three colors and multiple sizes to create a visually striking pattern. Elements Paving Stones in Reflection were utilized for the border of the walkway.

Throughout the design process, County Materials provided product quantity estimates and advice on how to overcome challenges with the site, including managing grading differences and dealing with rooftop storm water.

To create a level surface for the patio and provide additional seating, a 150 SF Tribute retaining wall and freestanding wall system was recommended. Two drains were built under the patio to move runoff away from the house.

The design also incorporated Passageways Step Units to access the elevated patio, which feature a natural textured face and tread for a safe and solid footing. Clean lines complement the other products used in the patio, and the modular shape and larger size of the steps allows for faster installation in a wide variety of applications.

Designed and manufactured to stand up to the effects of time, weathering, and abrasion from everyday use, County Materials' landscape products retain vibrant colors and resist damage from freeze/thaw cycles over a long service life.

Readily available materials made installation simple and efficient, and the project was completed within one month. The customer was pleased with the finished project and has been enjoying the patio.
